THE 1953 GLADLAND ACRES CATALOG

The Gladland Acres catalog is printed long before any others are issued. This is the third year in which it will be available for July distribution, so that our readers may use it to check prices of the varieties that appeal to them as they see them in the shows or in the gardens of their friends. Since it is printed before most growers decide on their price schedules it is sometimes possible that we may quote a higher price on some newer introduction than is later adopted by the originator. Of course in these instances we will expect to meet this lower price even though our quotations are based on our personal investment costs. This catalog is not a FREE publication except to our customers of record, so if you know of any friends whom you think would find our performance data valuable, please ask them to enclose 10c with their request for a copy to partially cover our cost. It is only by watching every penny that we can continue to bring our wide variety selection at the very reasonable charges we make for our bulbs.

In presenting our variety list for 1953, it would be very pleasing if we could afford the space to give you a word picture of each variety in detail; as each of the varieties herein listed, naturally, has some special attribute that is responsible for its appearance in our list of offerings. Such a presentation is impossible within the budget limits which we can afford for catalog expense. We have given you a complete breakdown by color classes and further segregated by floret sizes, and with the information as to number of days required to bring into bloom, the average number of buds per spike and the average number of florets opening and holding in good condition, together with name of originator and year of introduction, you will be able to make intelligent selections. As we see them, every variety listed is a superior one in some respect and we do not believe that you could pick a poor one from the entire group.

If you grow for home decoration you will find that the 300 size class (medium size florets) together with the small and miniature varieties will actually be more useful than those with the giant and large size florets, however there is a thrill in growing these new modern giants that will doubtless keep them tops in popularity for a long time.

QUANTITY DISCOUNTS

Quantity discounts are 20% from the each price for 5 or more of a single size and kind; 36% discount from the each price for 25 or more of a single size and kind. In the event that our catalog price is for 5 or more, as for example, 6 small Burma for 25c, then the 10 rate has already been given and the 25 or more rate would be 20% off the catalog rate, giving 83c as the net price of 25 small Burma. ALL TRANSPORTATION COSTS OF BULBS PURCHASED ON WHICH THE QUANTITY RATES HAVE BEEN TAKEN ARE THE EXPENSE OF THE PURCHASER.

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

WE pay transportation costs on orders totaling $5.00 or more but only on such items of these orders that are figured at the each rate. Orders totaling less than $5.00 will be forwarded by parcel post to keep transportation costs to the minimum but the customer will be expected to send us postage expense due us on receipt of parcel. This payment may be made in stamps and your package will contain a statement of postage due.

You will note that we are having to modify our policy of furnishing free mail delivery. Margins of profit have been so lessened by rises in all phases of expense, that it is necessary that we pass on this parcel post cost to our customers whenever the quantities ordered of a single variety to earn our 20% discount on lots of 5 or more, or 36% on lots of 25 or more. It will not be necessary to send us the exact amount of postage required, nor will we send the parcel C.O.D. for the postage due, but we will expect you to send us postage stamps to cover the amount due us, which we will show on each package as we mail it. To each individual this will be a minor amount, but to us, with the hundreds of parcel post shipments this expense totals into the hundreds of dollars in a season.

For your information, weight of bulbs, lightly packed for shipment in frost free weather, average as follows: one pound of weight will cover 10 large, or 25 medium, or 100 small bulbs. Present rates are:

DELIVERY DATES

Usually we are well through the cleaning and grading of bulbs by December 10th. All orders which specify "for Christmas Gifts" receive special handling and will be mailed in time for the Christmas giving if delivery points are on the west coast. East of the Rockies we will send such gift packages by express only, as otherwise we cannot insure against freeze damage. Please fill in the space on the order blank the date you prefer your package shipped. Orders that can be sent in freeze free weather are packed lightly and transportation expense is less. This applies to the Pacific Coastal Areas every month of the year, and to areas east of the Rockies after March 1st each spring. In sections where your planting season is in late January and February, and you are east of the Rockies, for your own protection you should always ask for express delivery — it is true that your cost will be a few cents more, but you are assured of full insurance, which cannot be given on parcel post delivery. It is our policy to give a choice recent variety free to compensate our customers for the extra expense of an express shipment.

FOR LATE SUMMER AND FALL PLANTING IN THE SOUTH

We always try to keep a supply of large bulbs an hand until mid-August for those of you who wish late fall or winter flowers. We can issue no list but usually can supply your favorite colors or a mixture if preferred of large flowering varieties especially suited for cut flowers. The price, $3.00 for 50 bulbs; $5.50 for 100 bulbs. Plus postage to your zone at the rate of 10 pounds weight per 100 bulbs.

SEEDLING BULBS — BULBLETS — and SEED

(A) We offer bulbs grown from bulblets of our 1949 seedling crop for $1.00 per 15 bulbs. Bulblets from this same stock for $1.00 per 100. (A mix from 4000 different seedlings.)

(B) Bulblets from our 1950 seedlings — 50 for $1.00. (A mix from 9000 different seedlings.)

(C) SEED — from latest introductions in our trials — per package of 15 seeds — 25c. Per packet of 100 seeds — $1.00.

(D) Seedling Bulbs from 1952 seed planting — which, of course, have not bloomed — $2.50 for 10 bulbs.

(E) Seedling Bulbs grown from bulblets of 1950 seedlings before selection, 25 for $2.50.

GLADLAND EXCLUSIVE INTRODUCTIONS FOR 1953

FROM G. M. KRESS OF WASHINGTON

ISLAND ORCHID (Class 267) 75 days. Lavender over cream at petal edges, cream throat with dusty deep violet throat arrows. 2 to 2½ inch florets with needle-pointed ruffled petals, in sheen and texture reminiscent of an orchid. Won the purple ribbon at Washington State Gladiolus Show where it created a sensation among fans of the miniature and small classes. We consider this an exceptional variety of 4-star quality. 12 buds, 5 open with 3 showing color. Flower head 20 inches, field height 42 inches.

Price per bulb (any size) $1.00. Bulblets, 8 for $1.00.

FROM MRS. WALTER WERTH OF OREGON

GOLD ROYAL (Class 412) 80 days. Color extremely clear and bright, medium yellow. Opens 6 on a 19 bud spike; field height about 42 inches. Withstands extreme heat better than any other yellow we have grown. For 2 successive years this has given the most satisfactory performance of the more than 50 yellow varieties we have been growing. Florets slightly ruffled.

Price per bulb (any size) $2.00. Bulblets, 10 for $2.00.

JANET WERTH (Class 542) 85 days. Bright deep pink with large creamy-white throat area. Another good heat-resister as it easily opened 8 of its large florets on 21 bud spikes in 100 degree weather. Very strong, straight, tall grower with perfect formal placement. It looks like a sure show winner.

Price per bulb (any size) $2.00. Bulblets, 10 for $2.00.

BABY VIOLET (Class 167) 70 days. A miniature glad that fills a space in the lavender or violet color classes as in color it lies between the two shades. While this shows plainly its "Prim." ancestry with slightly hooded florets and contrasting throat markings, it is really a charming little miniature. We do not rate this as a great glad but until one comes along with more widely opening flat florets in its size and color we believe it desirable and useful.

Price per bulb (any size) 50 cents. Bulblets, 10 for 75c.

We have several in our trial gardens that may possibly be introduced in 1953. A complete description of these will reach all readers of this catalog, in a special bulletin that we will issue when our own performance records this summer are tabulated and we are fully satisfied that last year's records are equalled or surpassed. The four that we are announcing are from Northwest hybridists as yet unknown to the majority of the gladiolus public.

An Offer Restricted to Our Customers in California and Western Oregon and Western Washington.

GLADIOLUS NANUS — BABY GLADS

Imported by us last year, and offered to our customers under the mistaken belief that they were entirely hardy, they proved so only on the Pacific Coast, but here they were very lovely and bloomed at least a month earlier than the standard miniatures. They must be planted in the fall not later than October 15th. Colors available are white, rose, scarlet and vermillion. Price per 5, either mixed or separate colors, your selection, for $1.00. Per 10, $1.75.

SEEDLINGS AT GLADLAND ACRES

A Special Report by Paul V. Baker

Throughout the past 6 years the growing of seed and seedlings has been for us an absorbing part of our summer activities. This summer we expected to have some 15,000 different seedlings bloom. Among this number that will flower for the third and fourth seasons we have a few more than 500 under number, with bulblets segregated so that any of these may be increased if we decide they are distinctive and fine enough to merit further consideration.

From these 500 we have chosen 28 that on basis of past performance we rank as of 4 star (definitely superior) quality; and depending on our findings this summer, plus reports from trial sets that were sent out last season, we will select five for 1953 release.

All Gladland customers will receive this fall a special bulletin describing the selected releases in detail, and those who earned our early order July-Aug.-Sept. discounts will be privileged to include any or all of these as a part of their bulb selections, thus gaining substantial price reductions.

One of the five is almost certain to be our No. 5-49. The color is quite extraordinary. The ruffled florets have a true chartreuse green center which finally, as the flower ages, turns to a green-yellow. Bordering all petals is a broad rose band, approximately $\frac{3}{4}$ inch wide, merging softly into the green center area. The effect is exotically oriental and very very beautiful. Without exception every visitor the past two summers who saw it in bloom, were insistent that we let them know when we would release a corm to them. Last season it bloomed in 77 days, opening 5 medium size florets on a 17 bud flowerhead. Probably will class as a 390 as it could hardly be classed as either yellow or rose. Superb for arrangements as it opens to the very tip, even in low bowl containers. The rose-tipped green unopened buds combine most artistically with the open florets. We can sell only a small quantity this year, as we have a total of only about 400 bulbs. The price on this one will be \$3.00 per bulb (any size) with bulblets if desired at 5 for \$2.00.

In all of our growing of glads we have never seen one that appealed to more, and we are happy that we were lucky enough to have originated it.

Among others of these 28 seedlings is an excellent 500 class white and a Royal Purple intensely ruffled variety whose growth habits and floescence is so identical with Burma except for color, that it could be a possible sport although no reversion from the bulblet stock would indicate that is actually the case. In any event this pair so impressed Art Burtis, one of the leading cut-flower growers of the Portland, Oregon, area, that he has purchased half of the existing stock of each and asks me to name the white "THE WHITE LADY."

Included are unusual smokies, some striking 500, frilled light yellows and buffs, and a fairly plain petaled purple in which the color is so radiant that the flower actually seems to glow. Besides these are some crosses of Elizabeth the Queen and Oregon Rose, in tints of lavender and rose that are quite impressive. Other colors are also represented, excepting dark black reds; some of these shades may show up later as a number of more recent seedlings have parentages which might result in something worthwhile in this color section. Our introductory price on any of these we release this coming season will be $2.00 per bulb, with the sole exception of the chartreuse-rose No. 549 which we will price at $3.00.

For several years we have made available to our customers, seed, seedling bulbs and bulblets. We make no attempt to segregate either bulbs or bulblets until after we have checked the second bloom, so all offerings will be made only of stock before segregation and any lot we offer may include varieties which have been or will be reserved for possible introduction.

We note a very great difference in seedling quality in those we produced during the past five years and those that we grew some 7 to 8 years ago. Those early seedlings were scarcely up to the quality of the varieties then in common use, and all were finally discarded. Now we find that the reverse is true. Most of the seedlings as they bloom for us are very attractive in form and color and while certainly few of them should ever be introduced because they lack distinctive originality, nevertheless for the amateur and the novice most of them surpass the older named varieties still very much in commerce.

The probable answer for this consistent high quality is the fact that for the past several years we have had available as seed parents the cream of the new introductions both from America and overseas. And we have used only those that we considered the very finest of the most recent introductions — and with such parentage we could scarcely expect too many inferior flowers. Many that we have used, we know were the results of many years of line breeding — and while our own seedlings are not the result of using line-bred strains to achieve definite results, we are finding by our own more or less haphazard crossings (and in many cases open pollenization in which we depend upon the known qualities of the female parent to give us some interesting progeny) that we are obtaining glads that even surprise us with the uniformity with which they produce fine-flowering bulbs of vigor and stamina. Please do not infer that we suggest that you follow our methods, as planned crosses, and careful records are much to be preferred and more certain to bring you closer to a goal of the creation of a flower which will have the size, form and color that you are striving to attain. Our seedlings are purely an avocation for which we have a minimum of time, and with us the very uncertainty of the bloom type that the seedlings will give us only adds zest to the enterprise. We suggest that you start to play with at least a small quantity — you will thoroughly enjoy it.

EXPLANATION OF CODE PRECEDING VARIETY NAMES

The first three numerals classify the flower as to size and color (except in 80 class, an odd ending digit number indicates that floret has conspicuous deeper throat markings.) Following the dash(—) the last two digits give average time to bloom from planting of large size bulbs.

SMALLS (200) Under 3½ Inches and MINIATURES (100) Under 2½ Inches.

95% of our stocks of these most popular sizes are grown from bulblets as we sell out so closely each year. We quote all sizes at same price. Largest bulbs (if requested) go to earliest buyers. No quantity discount on these except as listed. Most of the 300 size may be used in miniature arrangements, especially tip blossoms from small size bulbs. Up until this season we listed the smaller floreted varieties of the 300 class, such as Lavender & Gold, Rose Gem, Golden Frills, Hocus Pocus, with this small class.

HOW TO GROW GLADS FROM BULBS

The gladiolus can be, and should be, a summer-long flower producer in your garden. No bulb is so productive of truly spectacular color display — none nearly as economical to use — none are easier to grow and require as little gardening skill. Since they produce their flower spike on a very definite time schedule from date of planting, by planting your bulbs successively through the spring months, color can be depended upon from the development of the first spike until killing frost. Here in Oregon we plant as soon as the rains permit — varying from late February until mid-April — and continue plantings at 2 week intervals until July 1. These late June plantings produce their flower spikes in late September until frosts, which usually occur here in mid-October.

The planting requirements for fine flower bloom are most simple. They will grow successfully on any type of ground that can grow vegetable plants. While they prefer soil lightly on the acid side, they produce splendid bloom even in soil that is definitely alkaline. They develop best in full sun, with the same cultivation that you would give beans or carrots or sweet corn. Water only enough to keep the plants growing (in sections of average rainfall this means little or none) until the plants have developed their fifth leaf, but from the appearance of this leaf liberal supplies of water will increase the height of the spike and the floret size. Compost is the ideal plant food. Bone meal is excellent. Use commercial fertilizers sparingly, and not at all unless you are prepared to water liberally. An excess of nitrogen will actually delay blooming and stimulates scab and other fungus infections. If you plant bulbs of large and medium sizes, fertilizers do not seem to increase the quality of the spike, however they may assist in production of a larger bulb for the succeeding year if applied just as the bloom is fading.

Planting depth is preferably 4 to 6 inches. Shallower plantings will bloom earlier but spikes may topple over unless staked. Deeper plantings assist in permitting the spikes to remain erect. Planting distance can be as close as twice the diameter of the bulb. While 6 inches is preferable if spikes are to be left uncut for garden color, they may be planted closer if desired for cutting.

In cutting for the house, this may be done as soon as the first floret is opening. All Gladland superior varieties will then open to the very tip bud in water — although varieties differ markedly in the number of florets that will remain open without wilting. This information is given for nearly every variety in our catalog description, as is also the approximate time required to produce bloom after planting. In order not to affect the development of the bulb, the most effective method of leaving sufficient leafage to develop and mature the bulb and still obtain a spike of maximum stem length, is to insert the sharp point of a knife through the leaf sheath into the stem at a point about 8 inches above the ground. If you will then twist the stem gently but firmly it separates at the point of entry of the knife blade and can be pulled through the sheath leaving all of the main feeding leaves intact.

After the plant has bloomed — unless the foliage has been killed earlier by frost — the new bulb which forms above the one planted will be ripened enough to dig in from 4 to 6 weeks. In any case dig BEFORE the foliage is completely brown. Cut the old stem off immediately, when dug, with a rose or pruning shears as close to the bulb as possible. If bulb is muddy when dug, wash immediately and then dry as quickly as possible. Thru the late summer and early fall the bulbs will cure nicely if spread out on garage or attic floor, or in basement if there is good air circulation. In two or more weeks the bulbs will be sufficiently cured that the old bulb and roots will snap off easily, leaving a clean scar base. Bulbs may then be stored in a dry, cool place until time for planting. Small quantities may be stored in paper bags, WITH TOPS LEFT OPEN for air circulation. Larger lots may be stored in onion sacks or mesh bottomed trays. Preserve the bulblets if you wish to develop for yourself new young bulbs. (Read article "How to Grow Glads From Bulblets.")

THRIPS

Thrips are the only insects likely to seriously affect your gladiolus bloom. So tiny that they are difficult to see (1/16 inches long as adults) they feed on the leaf and flower petal surfaces, working largely at night or in daylight in the leaf crevices or on the inside of the bud petals. A heavy infestation distorts the florets and mars if not completely ruins the entire spike.

Now, control is simple — spray or dust with DDT, Chordane or Lindane regularly once a week beginning when the foliage is only 6 inches high. This will control their multiplication and will insure perfect flowers. Dust the bulbs immediately when dug with 5% DDT dust and repeat as soon as you have removed the old bulb and roots — to insure freedom from possible damage through the winter storage period.

HOW TO GROW GLADS FROM BULBLETS

A great many of our customers order bulblets and apparently have good success as we have had few complaints. We do not guarantee the germination of bulblets, and they need good care after germination. A 75% germination is fine — some varieties are so difficult that 25% is good. They are cheap in comparison with the price of bulbs because they are uncertain, and given even fair germination it is an economical way to get a start in new and expensive introductions. With expensive varieties it increases your percentage of germination if the hard hull is cracked or, even better, entirely removed. A dusting of the bulblet with one of the root formation stimulants, such as Rootone, very often speeds germination especially if bulblets are soaked for 24 hours before planting and before this dust is applied. With these sorts it pays to give each bulblet ample room to develop. Given two or three inch spacing, with ample water, they can easily make a large bulb and even bloom the first year if they germinate quickly. We plant as early in the spring as we can get into the ground, covering the bulblets about 1½ to 2 inches deep. Sizes vary greatly with different varieties, but the bulblets you will receive on your order are the largest we have on hand.

One treatment we find helps greatly, and that is to keep bulblets stored in a warm room — 70 degrees or more — for four to six weeks before planting. This seems to promote quick germination. Bulblets that are produced by bulbs grown from bulblets ordinarily germinate very much better than those produced from older bulbs. They are always smaller in size than those from older bulbs. When available, we always send out the bulblet grown from a bulblet because of the ease of germination.

GROWING GLADS FROM SEED

At some point in the progress of the Glad grower comes first the idea of growing them from seed. This is indeed a fascinating garden adventure. The results are guaranteed to relieve boredom, and if you have never tried this experiment — by all means plant some this year. The planting and culture are quite simple — plant just as early in the spring as weather permits working the ground. The soil must be friable and mellow. By mixing leaf mold or finely ground peat in the soil trench, it can be put in good condition even if quite stiff and hard. A new product from Monsana—KRILIUM, now available at some of the high class seed stores, is a soil conditioner that leaves the toughest, tightest soil loose and mellow, permitting entrance of both air and water. If your soil condition is unfavorable for rapid growth of either seed or bulblets, an application of this will go far towards making success certain.

The seeds are covered with about ½ inch of light mellow soil (pressed lightly to firm the ground about the seed) and spaced about 2 inches apart so that the new bulb will have room to grow to good size. Germination requires 3 to 5 weeks, when first blades will appear looking almost like a single blade of grass. Keep bed well watered, not of course until the ground is soggy, but well moist at all times. If ever the ground is allowed to become quite dry at root level the growth of the bulb is stopped, and later watering will not start its growth again. The bulbs are dug late in summer or fall and if they have attained a growth of ½ inch diameter or more they should bloom the next year. Most of them, if seed is from the finer modern varieties, will be better than the old-fashioned kinds (which for some unexplainable reason most local seed stores still offer), a few may be as good as the parent, but of course not like it — and once in 10, 000 or so you may achieve a miracle. Regardless of the quantity you grow no two will be exactly alike.

BULBLETS AND BULBLET PRICES

We are prepared to supply bulblets of every variety we list, although to save on printing costs these are not listed or priced except in a few instances. The basis of bulblet prices is usually 10 bulblets for the price of a large bulb. Smaller quantities are furnished at equivalent rate, but no bulblet order of less than 25 cents per variety can be furnished because of the expense of labeling and packaging. Since 75% germination of bulblets is exceptionally good, we do not guarantee germination, nor replace those that fail to germinate. We do not recommend the purchase of less than 2 or 3 bulblets of a variety.

GROWING GLADIOLUS FOR PROFIT AS A PART-TIME PASTIME

It's a funny thing about glads. Almost everyone who has ever grown them, starts out with mixed bulbs; quickly graduates to where the knowledge of the name of a favorite variety is essential to his happiness, and rapidly passes into the stage where the annual acquisition of the dream glads he sees advertised threatens to consume more of his annual budget for recreation than he likes to think about. We are using the masculine pronoun to describe this glad-fan, but it should be "they" as the feminine sex equally follows the pattern. Happy is the family when both "he and she" are simultaneously bitten by the "glad-fan" bug.

Now many of our customers are discovering that they can make their hobby not only pays its way but actually receive extra cash dividends on the capital invested. Two years ago we issued a 16 page booklet that went into detail on the subject of growing, cutting and marketing of cut-flowers as a part-time hobby with only a minimum of garden space available. This was so popular that we reprinted it in our 1952 catalog, and it was re-published serially this past winter in NORTH WEST GARDENS & HOMES, the leading Garden magazine of the Northwest. We have some copies left of the catalog which contains this article which we will mail you if you will send 10c to partially cover cost.

ARTISTRY IN GLADIOLUS ARRANGEMENT

A 48 page booklet with photographs and descriptive matter by Dr. Philip G. Corliss of Somerton, Arizona, which we published 2 years ago, has proven very popular and is filled with ideas for the home arranger. A few copies are still available at 50c postpaid. Dr. Corliss, noted for his flower photography, is constantly building what has been for several years the most comprehensive collection of flower slides in color, in America. Every garden club should have his list of subjects available at nominal rental cost.

HAVE YOU OVERLOOKED BETSY ROSS?

(Listed on Page 15)

This bright and unique glad was the center of attraction in our trial garden. Rather irregularly striped rose-red on a white background it was suggestive of the red and white striping of our American flag, consequently the name "BETSY ROSS." It opens 7 florets and a 19 to 20 bud spike in 80 days. Very colorful, and if you like them different and gay, it will appeal to you.

USE MORE GLADS AS ACCENT GROUPS IN YOUR FLOWER BORDERS

For this purpose you should use only a single color mass in each group and perfect results are obtainable from planting of medium size bulbs. You may specify the colors desired and the quantity of each — and we will sack and label each color separately.

Price per 50 — $2.00. Price per 100 — $3.50.
(Add postage for 4 lbs. per 100 to your zone.)

THE GLADLAND MIXTURE continues to be one of our best sellers — always hand made to insure a full color range — and includes not less than 20 varieties. About 25% of the bulbs are taken from "lost-label" trays which may include very new and costly varieties — balance are from varieties that are best for production of perfection spikes — either for cutting or garden effect. We offer this season in three sizes:

Large bulbs, per 100 — $5.00, plus postage on 10 pounds.

Medium bulbs, per 100 — $3.50, plus postage on 4 pounds.

Small bulbs, per 100 — $2.00, plus postage on 1 pound.
